House Staffer Frederick Mohrman Dies

The Washington Post

November 30, 2001

Frederick G. Mohrman, 69, who retired in 1996 as chief clerk and staff director of the House Appropriations Committee, died of a heart attack Nov. 28 at a hospital in Ashland, Ky. He moved to Grayson, Ky., from Woodbridge four years ago.

Mr. Mohrman was a native of Morrison, Ill., and a graduate of Kansas State University. He served in the Air Force in Korea during the Korean War.

He began his career in 1959 as a budget analyst with the Census Bureau. His later positions included assistant budget officer at the Bureau of the Budget and deputy budget officer at the Department of Commerce.

He joined the Appropriations Committee staff in 1975 and was named chief clerk in ...

TRIBUTE TO FREDERICK G. MOHRMAN

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Chairman, it is with sadness that I announce the death of Mr. Frederick G.
Mohrman.

Fred died at his home in Grayson, Kentucky early this morning. His wife, Jan, was with him when he died.
Fred served as clerk and staff director of the Committee on Appropriations from 1984 to 1995. He was born November 24, 1932, a graduate of Kansas State College. He joined the Committee on Appropriations on January 1, 1975. Two years later he was appointed clerk of the Subcommittee on Interior.
He became clerk and staff director of the Committee on Appropriations in February of 1985.

He retired from committee service in 1996, having served both Republican and Democrat majorities here in the House.

A veteran of the U.S. Air Force, he is survived by his wife, Jan, and 5 children: Jana, Deke, Sean, Lisa, and Danny.

Fred Mohrman was very much an institution on our committee. He was a big, gentle man. He knew when to be kind and he knew when to be gruff. He protected the committee against all challenges, most of the time with great success. He knew the rules and how to use them for the benefit of all.

When he retired, he bought a piece of land in eastern Kentucky and became “Farmin’ Fritz.” Each week he kept the committee updated with his new life.

Fred Mohrman leaves behind a legacy of loyalty, hard work, good humor, and a love of this institution. He will be greatly missed by all of us.

I am happy to yield to the gentleman from Wisconsin.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Chairman, I thank the gentleman for yielding. Let me simply say I think the institution has experienced a great loss with the death of Fred Mohrman. As the chairman has indicated, he served this committee and this Congress for a good many years. He in fact served me for a brief period as staff director after I became chairman, and he was what I would call an institutional man.

He cared deeply about this institution, and he cared deeply about the committee. He had that tough, oldfashioned sense of duty that characterized his entire generation, and this country and the world is far better off for it. He would have taken great pride in the fact that this year, despite all of the outside pressures that are brought to bear on this committee, that we managed to produce 12 out of 13 appropriation bills that were passed on a bipartisan basis, and 1 that was pretty close to doing the same.

He recognized that we need to define our differences and then we need to find ways to resolve them, and he took great pride in the services that he provided each and every Member on both sides of the aisle. He performed a great public service to this country. He was a man of absolute integrity, and we were saddened and shocked to learn of his passing.

Obey Breaks With Tradition

14 avril 1994, Eric Pianin

Newly installed House Appropriations Committee Chairman David R. Obey (D-Wis.), breaking with tradition, has selected a chief of staff from outside the ranks of the committee's professional staff.

Obey appointed Scott Lilly, executive director of the liberal House Democratic Study Group and former Obey congressional aide who also worked on George S. McGovern's 1972 Democratic presidential campaign.

The choice of Lilly, 47, as chief clerk and staff director was announced yesterday when Obey met with the chairmen of the committee's 13 subcommittees. Lilly succeeds Frederick G. Mohrman, 61, who is retiring Aug. 15.

Mohrman has led the committee staff since 1985 ...
